INN CROWD
LIVE PERFORMANCE SELECTION
Bringing exceptional live events to rural pubs

Autumn 2018

INN CROWD is a partnership project from:  INN CROWD associate partners are:  INN CROWD is supported by:
Welcome

Please find enclosed details of upcoming shows currently on offer to landlords as a new way to attract customers and bring unique performances from some of the UK’s most talented artists and performers, to your community.

If you would like to host one of the performances at your pub, please get in touch with a couple of possible dates and we can arrange a meeting to see your venue and discuss the project in full.

Your first event with INN CROWD will cost as little as £100 so you can try hosting a performance with no financial risk. Subsequent events will rise in cost on a sliding scale over the course of the three years.

We very much hope you find something of interest and look forward to working with you to bring some brilliant events to your community.

Down the Pub
with Luke Wright

Luke Wright is a spit and sawdust wordsmith. He tells inventive and engaging stories, documenting 21st century British life with wit, humanity and panache.

He’ll make you laugh, he’ll make you cry, and he might even get a round in. Come and see one of Britain’s most engaging performers where he belongs, spinning yarns down the boozer.

Available dates: Anytime

Failing pub landlord, Johnny, is in a fix: he’s drinking heavily, in debt to the pub-co, and his wife Sue has left him because he sold her horse without telling her.

In a desperate attempt to raise cash, Johnny’s putting on a ‘Big Fun Night’ at The Nag’s Head: a pub quiz, a meat raffle, an impromptu Morris dance, an Elvis impersonation and lots of karaoke.

Written in a darkly humorous style for pubs.

Available dates: 17th-19th Oct

Fake news, climate change (and it’s denial), that bloke from Home Alone Two in the White House, celebrities dropping like MySpace shares, trout pouting narcissists, unexpected items in the bagging area, the threat of thermonuclear war, fidget spinners.

In this witty, lyrical and unique spoken word comedy show Byron Vincent turns a satirical eye to both his personal and our collective existential crises.

Available: From Mid October

How I Came To Be Where I Never Was
Jonny Fluffypunk

How do you find yourself when you find yourself where you don't belong? Jonny Fluffypunk grew up in the far-flung, forgotten reaches of outer suburbia. In 1984, he was fifteen. This is a story about being the first punk in the village and the only trainspotter in eyeliner.

Fusing elements of theatre, storytelling, comedy, ‘stand-up poetry’ (think John Cooper-Clarke not John Keats) and even a bit of ukulele!

Kiss Me, Help! I Hate You

Jemima Foxtrot

An evening of love, laughter, community and boozing!

Three women at different stages of their lives. They're in the same pub on the same night. What are they thinking? Kiss me, Help! I Hate You tells three women's stories using audience interaction, poetry, story-telling and song.

This is a funny and raucous show, specially made to fit snuggly in a local!

The Moon Under Water
Andrew James Brown

History, philosophy, musings, poems, and tales of booze, horse brasses and Morris dancers.

Join Andrew James Brown for a warm lager or two. Taking Orwell’s 1946 essay as a starting point, this show travels through pubs great and small, through country inns and city gin-palaces, across parquet and sticky carpet alike.

A must for anyone who likes pubs!

Sick
Shey Hargreaves

Sick is a funny, heart-breaking and highly entertaining hour-long one-woman show about the impact of four years of cuts to the National Health Service.

Shey draws on her real life experience of working as a receptionist on a busy emergency unit to explore the way that austerity impacts on sick people, the staff who care for them, and their families and friends.

Talking To Strangers
Laurie Bolger

Stand-up poet Laurie Bolger brings you stories and chats about comfort food, supermarket meltdowns, tea and pub love. Her warm and witty poems ask the big questions: how does that annoying passenger on the bus turn out to be the stranger that saves the day?

Sometimes, when life is lonely, strangers give us the answers we need.
